NOTES

A semester is planned as 14 weeks of classes, midterm exams, and a final exam week.

Classes will be suspended during the midterm exam week.

Midterm exams for both the Fall and Spring semesters are scheduled to take place after the 8th week of classes. Exams that cannot be held during the midterm exam week (due to reasons such as open education exams on midterm days, insufficient time allocated for the midterm exam week due to the large number of classes, etc.) may be held in the following week of classes.

The Spring semester, final, and make-up exams are scheduled to begin after the Eid al-Adha holiday in 2027. If open education, YKS, etc. exams fall on weekends during exam days, the exams will be scheduled to be held on days other than those weekends. Due to the Ramadan and Eid al-Adha holidays in 2027, the weeks of March 8-14 and May 17-23 have been excluded from the academic calendar, and no classes will be held during these weeks.

* This exam is for students newly enrolled in units with a compulsory preparatory class or for students who previously enrolled in programs with a compulsory preparatory class and failed the preparatory class.

 This exam is used to determine the foreign language level of students who will attend compulsory and optional preparatory classes.

 This is the exam for obtaining exemption from the Informatics course and the foreign language course that is compulsory according to Article 5, paragraph (1) of Law No. 2547.
